

Be a part of our history.

The Woodrow Wilson High School Performing Arts Department was established in 1929, and its inaugural production of Giant Stairs swept the city contests. In 1957, Woodrow became one of the first schools to stage a full-scale, Broadway-style musical with Oklahoma! Since then, our unbroken string of annual musicals runs longer than any other high school in Texas.

Woodrow's award-winning musical productions are on a larger scale than a typical high school, and the magic that happens on the stage is unforgettable. The collaborative efforts from hundreds of students, teachers, parents and our community are nothing short of spectacular.

We've come a long way since 1929 – but one thing has not changed, we need the support of the community. Help us bring Woodrow's 67th annual musical Mean Girls to life for our community. We connect with our community in big ways because of you, our business sponsors.

The four-day run of Mean Girls will entertain thousands of musical goers, children, and families from East Dallas and the greater metroplex. Please consider a tax-deductible contribution and join the rich musical heritage that Woodrow delivers. Please review the Sponsor Levels and choose the one that best fits your budget.

Thank you for your generosity and support!
